

I drive many miles each year, and satellite radio is just the finest thing that has happened to communications in years....the availability of local information is excellent, since you do not have to already know the dial location of local radio.....this technology is modern and excellent and should not be denied by a monopoly of local broadcasters.